79 Div Citation for Gallantry in Action

Displayed absolute disregard of his personal safety and marked efficiency as a regimental runner during the entire action at Montfaucon from September 26th, 1918, to September 30th, 1918. He was constantly employed in carrying messages to the front line battalions, and from the various battalions to the front lines through both artillery and machine gun fire, and upon return was always able to give front line positions by his own observations which were in confirmation of reported positions. When given a message to carry to a Battalion Commander he always took it; when he found the Battalion Commander he returned and reported his success. He never had to ask where the Battalion Commander was and never had to be told.

79 Div Citation for Gallantry in Action

On the night of November 5th, 1918, when all telephonic communication had been cut between his company and battalion, this soldier made repeated trips through heavy artillery fire, displaying remarkable courage and absolute disregard of his personal safety.

Distinguished Service Cross

Near Chaudun, France, July 19, 1918.
Learning that the advance of the Infantry which his battery was supporting was meeting with stubborn resistance, Lieutenant Evans voluntarily went forward through artillery and machine-gun fire to the crest of a hill and climbed a tree overlooking the enemy position for the purpose of adjusting fire upon the enemy. Though subjected to severe fire from hostile artillery and machine-guns, he courageously remained in this exposed position, and was thus able to direct the fire of his battery as to materially assist the advance of the Infantry.

1 Div Citation for Gallantry in Action Operations between the Argonne and the Meuse, Oct. 1-11, 1918.
During an intense enemy bombardment of a battery position, went from piece to piece, giving the crews the data for continuing the rolling barrage in support of the infantry and inspiring his men by his coolness and disregard of personal danger.

Wounded deg and 11/1/18
Distinguished Service Cross

Near Le Chamois, in the Badonville sub-sector, France, March 5, 1918.
Corporal Fanning was in charge of a Trench Mortar Emplacement which was firing a barrage against an enemy raid. One of the bombs from the mortar fell on the side of the emplacement and was rolling into the emplacement where the gun crew of four other men were located. Corporal Fanning rushed across the emplacement, seized the bomb as it was rolling, and unscrewed the fuse, thereby exposing himself to great personal danger and by his heroic action saving the lives of his comrades in the emplacement.

French Croix de Guerre (Silver Star) On March 4, 1918, a bomb having fallen on the parapet of the trench, he threw himself upon it to prevent its explosion, preventing serious casualties to his comrades by his presence of mind and courage.

3 Div Citation for Gallantry in Action

The following are commended for distinguished gallantry in action on the river Marne at Gland, France, during the night of June 18-19th, 1918, 2nd Lieutenant Wm. H.
Haynes, 38th Infantry, organized a patrol across the river at a point above Fossey, France. The patrol crossed in three boats, two of the boats on the way over being sunk by enemy fire, the occupants of the two sunken boats swam the river in the face of hostile fire until the enemy's bank was reached. Upon arrival at the other side their landing was disputed by an enemy's patrol.
Lieutenant Haynes and his patrol in a hand-to-hand fight succeeded in either killing or capturing the enemy patrol. They reconnoitered the opposite bank, secured and returned to their own side with valuable information of the enemy's positions.

79 Div Citation for Gallantry in Action

After the Company Commander of his company was killed in action, all other officers having been wounded or absent on other duty, Sergeant Feige took command of his company and while under heavy shell fire, reorganized it and conducted to his position as ordered. He, by his coolness, and efficient action, was an example to the men of his company.

Wounded severely 10/25/18
Distinguished Service Cross
Near Montagne, France, Oct. 17, 1918.

After three men of his carrying party had been wounded and the others scattered by shellfire, Private Ferry organized a second detail, which he led through heavy shellfire to his company kitchen and returned after dark with rations for the men in the front line.
French Croix de Guerre (Gilt Star)
His fatigue party having been dispersed by enemy artillery fire, he displayed initiative in organizing a second party under the bombardment, and in carrying rations to the front lines.

They voluntarily risked their lives on the 5th November, 1918, near Hill 378, north of Verdun. They left a trench while it was under direct observation and direct machine gun fire of the enemy, to bring in to safety a wounded member of their battalion, who was lying wounded beyond a wire entanglement, which made the work of rescue extremely difficult and dangerous.

Wounded severely 11/4/18
Distinguished Service Cross
Near Eyne, Belgium, Nov. 4, 1918.
Although severely wounded and his jaw shattered by a machine-gun administered first aid himself, and continued to fearlessly direct his battalion during a strong counter-attack. The personal example of this officer was a vital factor in the success of the operation.

1 Inf Brig Citation for Gallantry in Action

In three of the four Major operations of this Division:—Montdidier-Noyon defensive, Aisne-Marne offensive, St. Mihiel offensive.

tion

North of Malancourt on Sept. 27 and 28, 1918.
On September 27th Lieut. Ford's platoon was held up in a trench by the fire of German snipers from a small wood immediately ahead.
Taking a rifle from one of the men in his platoon, Lieut. Ford worked his way out in front of the trench occupied by his platoon, assisted in neutralizing the fire of the enemy, and succeeded in mortally wounding one German sniper. On the morning of September 28th, Lieut. Ford was seriously wounded in the leg by a piece of high explosive shell while leading his platoon in the attack on Nantillois. Although able to walk with difficulty, Lieut. Ford gathered together a number of the less seriously wounded of his company and personally conducted them to the first aid station, where he assisted the surgeon in the work of rendering first aid to the wounded.

tion
This soldier, with two others, formed a sentry squad in an advanced outpost line near Avocourt on the morning of September 22, 1918.
They became exposed to a heavy barrage from the enemy preparatory to a trench raid. He remained in this advanced position under heavy fire, and by his marked coolness in delivering fire against a battalion of the enemy making a trench raid, rendered great assistance in preventing the raid being a success by repelling it at the outpost position.
He remained at his position under this fire until the raid was repulsed.

Killed in action 6/12/18 AEF Citation for Gallantry in Action For gallantry in action in the Bois de Belleau, France, June 12, 1918, in attempting to deliver an important message through a heavy barrage.
2 Div Citation for Gallantry in Action
The twenty-two above named were attached to 2nd Battalion Headquarters as runners during the attack on and occupation of the Bois de Belleau. Their work was extremely dangerous, frequently requiring them to go through artillery and machine-gun barrages. Never was there the slightest hesitation in carrying these hazardous messages. This in the Bois de Belleau, June, 1918.
French Croix de Guerre (Silver Star)
At Bouresches during the attacks of June, 1918, while acting as liaison agent, he made a number of trips under artillery and machine-gun fire between the post of command of the company and that of the battalion, constantly delivering important messages.

In the Gerardmer defensive sector, France, Sept. 16, 1918.
Major Garey organized and led a combat patrol which penetrated the enemy lines and returned with several prisoners. Although exposed to machine-gun fire and later grenade fire from a superior number of the enemy, he conducted his patrol so as to accomplish its mission and returned to our lines with valuable information.

French Croix de Guerre (Gilt Star)

He prepared with the greatest care and skill a long distance reconnaissance into the enemy's lines. He conducted it himself with energy and boldness at the head of a group of 4 officers and 15 men and succeeded in returning to our lines without a single loss and with four prisoners.

On about November 5, 1918, though severely burnt about the legs with mustard gas, refused to leave his detail, and continued as limeman.
Later at Molleville Farm he operated the switchboard for extended periods during three days, owing to a shortage of operators. He always worked cheerfully with untiring efforts and little rest.

At a critical time when our forces were held up in crossing the Meuse, near Clery-le-Petit, November 5th, 1918, the foregoing named officers and men, all of I Company, 60th Infantry, displayed extraordinary heroism in advancing over a lightly constructed pontoon bridge in the face of heavy enemy machine gun and artillery fire. Lieutenant O. K.
Morrison and 80 men succeeded in crossing the canal, East of the river, and at dawn advanced, in the face of terrific rifle and machine gun fire, without awaiting orders, against a vastly superior force of the enemy then in a position on Hill 260. The portion of the company under Captain E. C. Allworth swam the canal under heavy fire after the bridge had been destroyed, joined in the attack, advanced about a kilometer, killed many of the enemy and captured three (3) officers and one-hundred (100) men.

Action

At a critical time when our forces
were held up in crossing the Meuse, near Clerly-le-Petit, November 5th, 1918, the foregoing named officers and men, all of I Company, 60th Infantry, displayed extraordinary heroism in advancing over a lightly constructed pontoon bridge in the
and artillery fire. Lieutenant O. K.
crossing the canal, East of the river, and at dawn advanced, in the face of terrific rifle and machine gun fire, without awaiting orders, against a vastly superior force of the enemy then in a position on Hill 260. The portion of the company under Captain E. C. Allworth swam the canal under heavy fire after the bridge had been destroyed, joined in the attack, advanced about a kilometer, killed many of the enemy and captured three (3) officers and one-hundred (100) men.

Action
On November 9th, 1918, the above-named men all of Company M, 61st Infantry, advanced from Lion-de-vant-Dun without artillery support in face of heavy enemy machine gun and artillery fire and captured Char-meis. They then proceeded toward Meuzay where they drove a battalion of the enemy from the town and captured it. This movement cleared the enemy from the east bank of the Meuse for many kilometers enabling the 5th Division to advance.
This movement established a bridgehead for the 90th Division.

Action

For exceptional bravery and devotion to duty. On September 16th, 1918, in the Bois de Bon Vaux, after liaison between the front lines and the reserve had been lost for several hours, due to the intensity of the shell fire, and after the runners were either wounded or killed, volunteered to carry messages from the 3d Battalion (in reserve) to the second Battalion in the front lines.
Though under heavy shell fire at all times, he successfully accomplished his mission and maintained liaison at all times until the Battalion was relieved. His cheerfulness and devotion to duty was at all times an example to his comrades.

Distinguished Service Cross
Near the village of Negre, France, March 19, 1918.
Pvt. Greer, with utter disregard of his own personal danger, volunteered to carry an important message for his platoon commander.
While on a shell-swept road endeavoring to carry out this mission he was severely wounded by a shell fragment and was found in this condition by a French soldier. Being unable to speak French he could not explain the importance of his mission. With the assistance of the French soldier, however, Pvt. Greer continued on his mission until he was able to deliver the message to a member of his own organization.
He soon thereafter became unconscious from the effects of his wound.
Pvt. Greer displayed extraordinary courage, self-sacrifice and devotion to duty in completing his mission after having been so severely wounded.

 War Dept Citation for Gallantry in Action
 Near Ammerzwiller, Alsace, Sept. 16-17, 1918.
 He voluntarily led a patrol which penetrated the enemy lines. He permitted an enemy patrol to pass his men and enter No Man's Land, whereupon they were attacked by pistols and hand grenades and many of the enemy killed or wounded. Together with three of his men, Captain Grymes remained to cover the return of his patrol, which was accomplished without the loss of a single member.

War Dept Citation for Gallantry in Action
 At Bois de Consenvoye, France, Oct. 10, 1918.
 He rescued, under heavy enemy fire, a wounded soldier of his command and carried him to a place of comparative safety.

The thirty-two men above named, by their conduct showed the highest qualities of courage, aggressiveness, and judgment under trying conditions, under machine-gun and shellfire in the woods, much of the time in darkness. Due to their work in reorganizing and continuing the fight, the advance was carried on.
This in the Bois de Belleau, June, 1918.
French Croix de Guerre (Palm)
In the Belleau Wood on June 11, 1918, he displayed the finest qualities of bravery and coolness in going forward alone and in the middle of the night in order to locate a nest of enemy machine-guns which constantly harassed our lines.

Displayed remarkable courage and devotion to duty October 24, 1918, in the Bois de Consenvoye, when, under intense shell fire he left a place of comparative safety to save a wounded comrade, and, having carried him to a place of safety, he successfully led his platoon through an intense artillery barrage to re-enforce the front line.

Wounded slightly 5/28/18
Distinguished Service Cross
At Lironville, France, May 28, 1918.
Lieutenant Hambleton, accompanied by Lieutenant Taylor, while answering an alert to Lironville, France, encountered five enemy airplanes in the vicinity of St. Mihiel.
As the American airplanes approached the enemy turned away.
Lieutenant Hambleton and Lieutenant Taylor followed, and at Pont-a-Mousson again overtook the enemy, one airplane flying at 1,500 meters, two at 2,000 meters, and the remaining two airplanes at 2,500 meters. Lieutenant Hambleton attacked the lowest airplane, firing 20 rounds and driving it from the formation. An enemy bullet shot the cross section wires from his airplane, the splinters from the bullet cutting his cheek and right shoulder. Notwithstanding his wounds and the disabled condition of his airplane, he continued to fight until the enemy was driven to its own lines.

Oak Leaf Cluster
Near Gironville, France, June 6, 1918.

After becoming separated from his patrol, on account of misty weather, Lieutenant Hambleton was flying in the region of Gironville when he encountered two enemy biplane machines. He engaged them in a sharp combat despite the fact that he was being subjected to the concentrated fire of both biplanes. He pulled away and was maneuvering for a better position when the biplanes started into Germany and he promptly chased them across the lines, thereby preventing them from performing a photographic mission.

On the same date in the region of Grissolles, while leading a patrol, Lieutenant Hambleton encountered a formation of five enemy pursuit airplanes. He gallantly led the attack, and after a short and decisive fight with one enemy airplane, during which time he was subjected to the concentrated fire of the other enemy airplanes, he drove it to the ground, where it crashed. Still undaunted, he returned and, without hesitation or fear, repeatedly attacked the remainder of the enemy formation until he had forced it to retire in disorder. The rare courage and superb devotion to duty displayed by Lieutenant Hambleton greatly inspired the members of his squadron.

A superior pursuit pilot who during the operations of July, 1918, fought many combats under conditions often precarious. On May 30, he aided in downing an enemy plane in the region of Pont-a-Mousson.

On October 29, 1918, were most aggressive and displayed great coolness in searching the town of Ain-creville for traps and mines. These men entered the town in the evening and during the night and following day searched every house and dugout in the effort to locate any mines laid by the enemy. Several were found and destroyed.
Their mission was accomplished

Congressional Medal of Honor

For extraordinary heroism as pilot of a seaplane on August 21st, 1918, when with three other planes he took part in a patrol for dropping propaganda on Pola. They encountered and attacked a superior force of enemy land planes and in the course of the engagement which followed, the plane of Ensign Ludlow was shot down and fell in the water five miles off Pola. Ensign Ham-mann immediately dived down and landed on the water close alongside the disabled machine, where he took Ludlow on board and, although his machine was not designed for the double load to which it was subjected, and although there was danger of attack by Austrian planes, made his way to Porto Corsini.

Italian Military Valor Medal (Silver) Pilot of a pursuit seaplane during a war mission to drop propaganda manifests over Pola, attacked by faster and more easily handled enemy land planes, sustained the combat with coolness and courage while his plane was hit several times. Seeing one of his comrades forced to land on account of a damaged plane, he did not hesitate in rushing to his assistance, landing nearby and taking on board his comrade, first destroying the damaged plane before leaving the scene of combat.
